Recommendation for best practice:

To all agencies,

We often receive multiple calls for cars off the road or non-hazardous wires down during bad weather. Many of these calls are for scenes we have already been to and checked out. This recommendation is to wrap yellow line tape around the vehicle or non-hazardous downed wire so that any civilian or cell phone user that passes by will see it. If they choose to call 911 to report the car or downed wire, Central Dispatch can ask if there is yellow line tape visible at the scene. This will confirm that the scene has been checked by emergency responders.

This is a suggestion to minimize unnecessary calls and duplication of services.
